OCI PUBLISHED IN DISABILITY MANAGEMENT EMPLOYER COALITION DESK REFERENCE, TOOLS OF THE TRADE

Denver, Colorado, August 7, 2009 – OCI's Executive Vice President, Daniel M. Blaney, III and OCI Data Analyst, Mark Peterson, were recently published in the Disability Management Employer Coalition (DMEC) definitive desk reference, Tools of the Trade.

Tools of the Trade gives the novice and seasoned professional alike the information they need to establish and manage their absence and disability management initiatives. Its 265 pages cover all the core topics such as: what programs can be integrated, how to start an initiative, legal compliance, key processes, diversity, metrics, ROI and more. Published by DMEC, it also incorporates subject matter authors to provide additional best practice applications.

OCI authors, Blaney and Peterson, contributed to the publication by penning the section entitled, Integrated Reporting and Metrics. OCI's extensive experience in data integration and reporting is evident throughout the section as it describes:

- What data integration is and why it's critical in today's business environment
- The value of data integration and analysis
- How to build a successful integrated reporting program, including key data elements and report models
- Helpful insights gained from over 25 years experience in data integration and management
